“The Days We Spent with Thee Were Sweet”

The time has come, dear friend, when we must part
And leave behind our care-free days;
Regret and sadness soon will fill our hearts;
We, too, will know no more these ways.

There are no words or deeds which can express
Our gratitude and love for thee;
The feeling lies deep down within our hearts;
There may it always, good friend, be.

Although we leave thee here and travel on
To other, newer lands afar,
These mem'ries still will stay throughout the years
Until we both have crossed the bar.

To us, you've been a lighthouse on the shore,
To guide us through our early life;
Majestic, strong, an opener of doors,
A friend in need in times of strife.

Each second brings our parting time more near—
The time when we must say good-bye;
Long will we treasure these short days so dear—
These days which seem, sometimes, to fly.

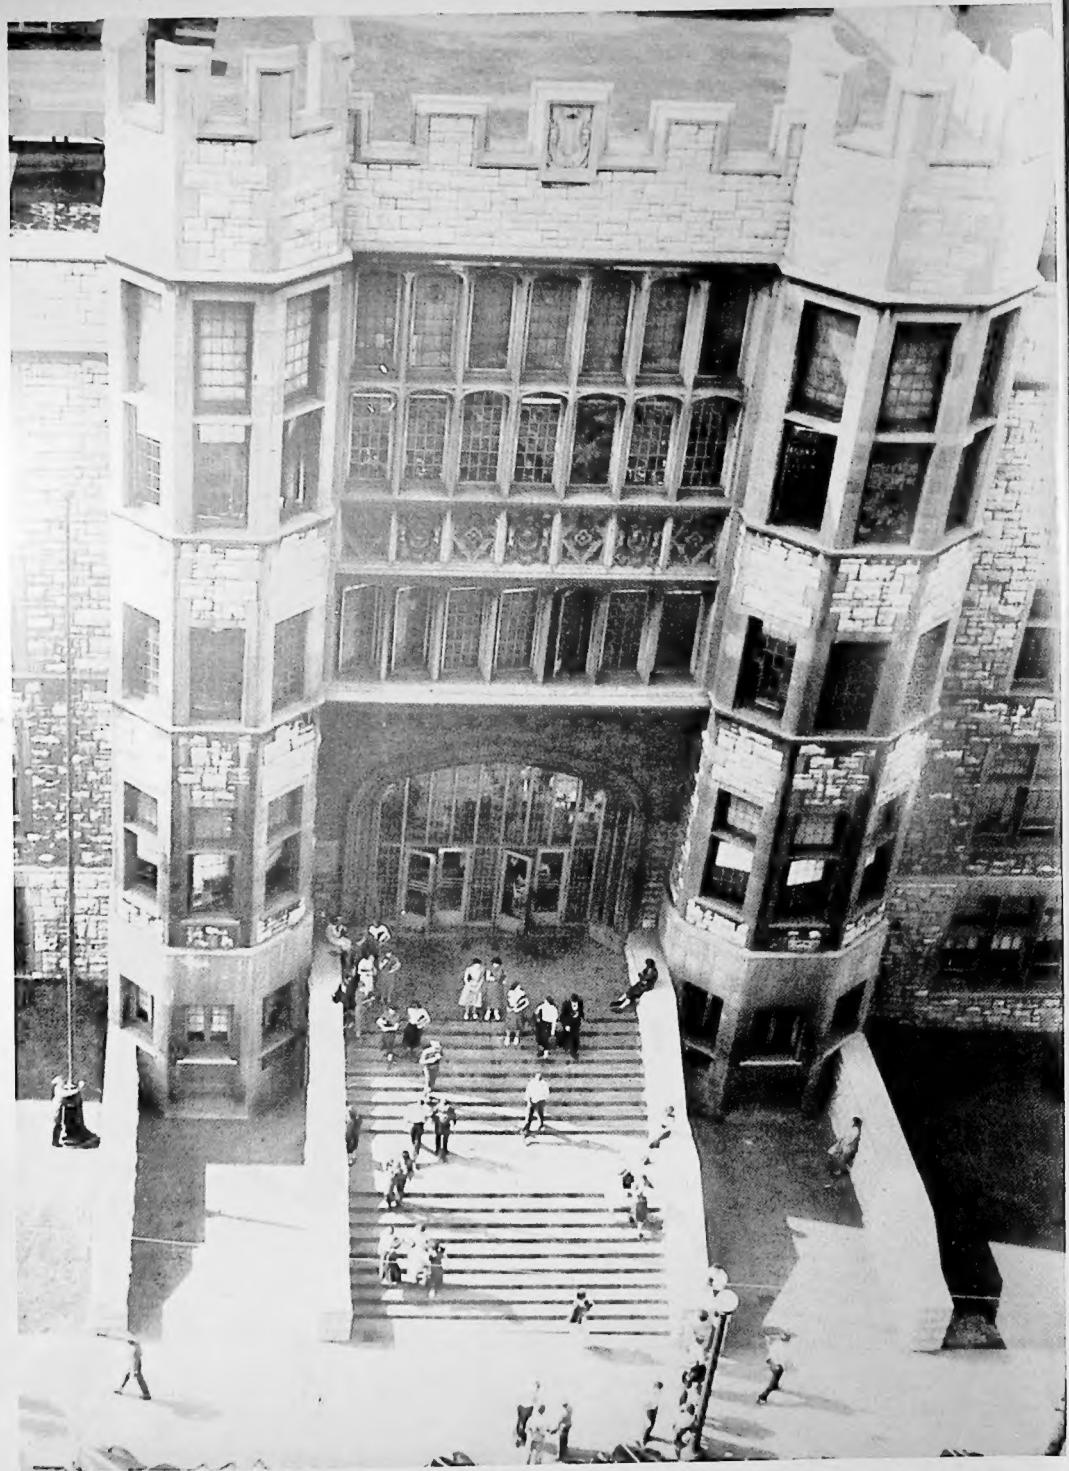

If ever we are asked to tell just why
Regret rose up within our hearts
At that sad time when we had said good-bye,
Our answer would be this, in part:

“THE DAYS WE SPENT WITH THEE WERE SWEET.”

Senior Prophecy for 1940

Time: June 10, 1940

Place: New York, New York, U. S. A.

For some time I had had a thought running through my mind which at last was to become a reality. I had longed for years to look up some of my old classmates at Hume-Fogg, many of whom I hear have gained world-wide fame. At length, an opportunity presented itself which would enable me to carry out this treasured dream, so I immediately accepted it. I was instructed to illustrate a book, and to get the material needed, I could travel to any part of the world that attracted me. Here indeed was a golden opportunity—I could visit all my friends wherever they were while gathering material for the book.

My search began here in New York and, as my plane glided down for a landing at the airport, I found myself becoming almost too enthusiastic. Whom would I see first?

As my plane rolled to a stop and I stepped out on the field, a squadron of army planes was stopping over at the airport. As I walked toward the administration building, I saw a group of army officers, among them a Commander-in-Chief. When he turned to face me, whom did I see—JOHN GREEN. Stepping out of an American Airlines ship as I passed was MARY ANN PRICE, now an airline stewardess.

I was met at the airport by DONALD LUNN, big time executive with whom I was to stay during my N. Y. visit. After suitable salutations, he informed me that there were a number of Hume-Fogg graduates in town.

As I left the airport, I passed a beautiful garden with a sign in front stating "Gardner's Censored Seedlings, LEONARD GARDNER, official waterer."

While driving through town, I observed that many of my pals had done well. I saw that MILDRED ARKOVITZ was fashion stylist at Macy's, JEANETTE COHEN owner of a chain of 5 & 10 cent stores, and SARA ROSE GORDON a buyer in one of the larger department stores.

I had been told that I could further my search in the entertainment field, so, buying a theatrical publication, I was pleasantly surprised to find many familiar names there.

First to catch my eye was CHARLES UNDERWOOD, newest slap-stick comedy star of Broadway, and just below, RICQUET VAUGHAN, successor to Fred Astaire; also there was RUBY FOTRELL who seems to have replaced Sally Rand in the entertainment line. We were also represented in the Metropolitan by JIMMY BARROW, successor to Nine Martini. ORINDA FOX is a chorus cutie at the Stork Club.

ANITA RAY DUFF is singing torch songs at the Hotel Astor, accompanied by ADAM GEBHARDT (who has stepped into Benny Goodman's shoes), and his orchestra. Tonight they are to introduce a new song by MAXINE HERRON, of the song writing team of Herron and Herron.

On the same bill at the Singapore Club are SARA FRANCES GREEN, make-believe oriental dancer, and DOROTHY LINN, supple acrobatic dancer.

In the sport section I saw a large photograph of WILLIAM ADLER, pitcher for the Cardinals—and he's better than Dizzy Dean. A novelty attraction is a wrestling match featuring EVELYN LYELL, Women's World Champion Wrestler. An appearance is to be made soon, in a coming match, by ANNA PRICE RAMSEY, U. S. Tennis Champ. An act with the Ringling Bros. circus features on a turn bill EVELYN CLAIRE TRAVIS, a tight rope walker, and HELEN and SARA VERNON, bareback riders.

CLAUDEAN WOODALL and DOROTHEA HICKS may be seen in Billy Rose Jr.'s aquacade, now hitting it off in Hoboken. PAULINE WEST has become a cabaret dancer in a smart N. Y. night spot.

Delighted to find so many of my friends, I looked further, and an advertisement caught my eye—"students wanted for the 'Long Tongue College for Women' in the Bronx—President, WANDA FELTS."

In the evening as we entered a large hotel for dinner, I was surprised to find the hat-check girl to be MARY ALINE HUDSON, and a passing cigarette girl turned out to be MARIE HANLEY. At dinner I noted that the table next to mine was occupied by MADELINE MAYNARD, a happy housewife, and LOTTIE MAY GOODMAN, still an old maid.

My attention was attracted by a distinguished-looking couple who entered, and I recognized them as MARY ELIZABETH DRAPER, now a N. Y. hairdresser, and EUGENE PARGH, owner of "Tidbit," 1966 Derby winner.

As I was visiting the publisher the next morning, preparing to begin the next lap of my trip, I found the publisher's secretary to be LORENE BAUMAN, and in the adjoining office I stopped to speak to FRANCES LAWRENCE, now a stenographer.

On leaving the office I went into a store for some cigarettes and I found the salesgirl, ANNE LEFKOVITZ, talking to JOHNNIE MAE DRIVER who told me she is the wife of a traveling salesman.

Before going back to the airport, I stopped off at the new College of Advanced Knowledge, which was on my way.

Walking down the corridors of this ultra modern school, I saw a sign over a door, "RUBY LOFTIN, Latin teacher" and further on, "DOROTHY MCKINNON, sewing teacher." In the skylighted drafting room I found FLOYD WILLIAMS, mechanical arts director, and CHARLES VAUGHN, an electrical engineer.

Back at the airport where my ship was fueled and ready, I paused for a few minutes to talk to TOM DAVIDSON, a pilot in Her Majesty's Royal Air Corp, who is here on leave.

Leaving N. Y., I pointed the nose of my plane toward the Pacific Coast and, after an uneventful trip, I arrived in Hollywood, still the cinema capital of the world, I was met by Romeo's inspiration—in other words, the ladies' man, EDWARD MARTIN. Many Hume-Fogg alumni were also quite successful in Hollywood, in different fields—for instance, ROSS BALLEW is the stand-in for Ronald Colman who is playing in the 1940 production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," written by RUFUS DAUGHERTY. BETTIE PAGE is now preparing for her greatest role of "Ni-notcha," opposite Mickey Rooney.

JEANNIE GREER is the Costume Mistress at Paramount Studios. The movie spotlight is also shared by SUZANNA WIESEHAN, the world famous character actress, and NELL PHILLIPS, who is doing negro parts.

PAUL BOOKER is the new glamour boy of Hollywood.

Different jobs held by old schoolmates are sometimes a little queer. LILLIE MAE TYLER is the personal chaperone to Baby Sandy; J. B. VAUGHN is the caretaker of Mae West's estate in Skunk Hollow; another great accomplishment has been made by ANNA CLAIRE CARTER, the perfect wife of the now-settled-and-sober John Barrymore.

INA MAI FRIZZELL is now housekeeping for Jackie Cooper. HELEN COLMAN is the chief beauty operator at the Warner Brothers lot.

Driving around the city, I found more of our successful graduates. I saw a beauty shop owned by NELROSE KENNEDY, with IRENE ROLMAN, manicurist; and I understand MARTHA MONK is the make-up artist at the Alcatraz Beauty Salon.

I ate lunch at a Cafe owned and operated by MARGARET ROBERTS, whose expert dietician is ALENE PATTERSON. As we were leaving, we met MABEL MORRIS, bookkeeper at Jones' Foundry.

While walking down the street to our car, I saw on a poster—"Wanted—Two Gun Liz," from Mexico, for theft of ermine wraps—and whose picture did I find thereon? ELIZABETH WISE.

I stopped to buy a paper in front of a hardware store and, when I saw the name, I walked in, and there stood LUTHER GEORGE, joint owner of George, George, and George Hardware Co. One of his sales-ladies is HALLIE WEST.

When I reached the hotel, I saw WILLODEAN WALL who told me she is now a country school teacher. I found in the paper that DOROTHY TREVOR is appearing at the Troc, in Earl Carroll's Vanities, and with the help of MYRA MITCHENER'S "Advice to the Love Lorn" column, ELSIE PHILLIPS has hooked a husband.

JEANETTE RUBEN is the recently-elected Sponsor of Nation-Wide Dead End Organizations; she is assisted by MARY ELIZABETH REAVIS, an otherwise-happy housewife.

Another Hume-Fogger in the entertainment field is RUTH GRAVES, the new sensation at the popular Rainbow Night Spot. HARRIETTE GEBHARDT is one of the newest additions to the Rockettes in Radio City.

In the literary field, I noticed that ANTHONY PAPUCHIS won the Nobel prize for 1970, and MUSETTA HAMILTON captured the Newberry prize for the best child book of 1970.

The morning I prepared to leave for my next flight, I discovered that in the hotel where I stayed were VIRGINIA VAUGHN, a contented mother of five, and RALPH HAVERLY, her hen-pecked husband.

A new arrival at the same hotel was FRANCES STORY, the No. 1 debutante of this year's social season, and I found out from her that MARY ANN ROPER is now a beloved Sunday School teacher in far-off Afghanistan and that FLORENCE FULLER is now teaching school at Yale.

On the way to the airport once more, I passed Moskovitz's Fashion Shoppe, owned by DORIS MOSKOVITZ, whose clerical work is ably handled by her secretary, VIRGINIA SUE GREEN.

Just outside the city I was attracted by a large dog kennel bearing this sign, "PHYLLIS HENDERSON, dog owner—100 Spaniels." What a profession that must be—you might say she had gone to the dogs!

Nearing the airport, I decided to visit ED WILLIAMS, manufacturer of little toy airplanes, so this is where our great Aeronautical Engineer had ended! "For Christmas, birthdays, or any other holiday, give a Williams Toy Airplane"—so read his sales slogan.

Leaving the field in my plane, which was heavily loaded with gasoline, I settled down for a flight to the Hawaiian Islands. In my new high-speed plane, I soon reached the Dreamy Islands.

As I walked down the Beach at Waikiki, I stopped to watch MARY EMMA DICKENS demonstrate her technique as she taught her class to do the hula; while chatting with her later, I was surprised to find that CATHERINE FERGUSON is the contented keeper of a "Love Bird" cottage in Kalamazoo.

In the evening as the moon came up over the palm trees and the surf bathers crowded the beaches, I ran across DOROTHY CORKRAN, vacationing from her business in Washington; also on the beach were JAMES BEARD and FLOYD LEE who are gathering material for their latest book which is to have a native Hawaiian setting.

My stay in the Islands was short, and next day as I was flying over Asia, a tiresome flight, I heard an ungodly noise rising from an Arabian city. I landed, and followed the sound to a very swank night spot. There was SHIRLEY ESKIND, swinging a mean baton, and leading her famous all-girl orchestra.

Sitting, entranced by the music, I saw HERMAN GRAY, who has been completing Mahatma Ghandi's work in Oriental India. At the next table, with a slant-eyed gentleman, was MILDRED GREGORY who is doing social work in China.

I decided to stop off in Africa before returning to America, so, after refueling, I hopped over there for breakfast. While walking down the narrow road from the field where I landed, I saw—of all things—an H. G. Hill store, managed by GUY SHEPARD, and leaning on the hitching post in front of the store was HENRY HITE, Brigadier-General of the African mounted police. I heard from this good authority that the veteran sea captain, E. W. NAYLOR, has just landed at a coastal town, in the schooner, Minnie More

As I prepared to leave in the evening, I encountered a couple of bedraggled and bewhiskered traders with their safari, trudging out of the jungle. Behold! FRANK MARTIN and JAMES MATTHAI doing research work for a Boston museum! They told me they had just seen JOSEPHINE BREECE and her party, who are traveling around the world, but, anxious as I was to hear more, I had to leave—so, I took off for South America.

My first stop was in Brazil, where I met none other than MARK OSBORNE, speaker of the House in Washington, who is vacationing for two months. As we were discussing our former good times, Mark told me of WILLIAM PHILIPS, who is the head librarian of the largest public library in South America. While pondering over his success, I decided to visit DORRIS PRIEST, the ideal married man; his spouse is BESSIE GREER, English instructor at Loafers' College.

My next hop was for Chile, where the climate is perfect. LILLIAN JACKSON has a cute little cottage there and makes a divine housekeeper. She has RUTH HENDERSON, who is a Civil Service employee, boarding with her.

Having been gone for several months, I decided it was best to get back to work, but I had one more place of importance to revisit before doing this, that was Southern California. On my way there, I stopped in Nevada. Upon learning that RICHARD TERRY was owner of a 2,000-head cattle ranch, I decided to pay him a few minutes' visit. After striving to my utmost to get a few words out of him, I found that GLADYS COOK was the chief-cook-and-bottle-washer for his hired hands. Among his helpers was BERNICE MELTON, who is outstanding in the pastry line.

California being only an hour's flight from Nevada, I reached it in the late afternoon. I rested for several hours and then decided to attend the swankiest night spot in Los Angeles. Who should I meet at the "Blue Room" but ROSS GIBSON, swinging out on his hot trumpet. MARY RUTH WILLIAMS is doing the vocals for his famous eleven-piece orchestra.

Among the honor guests were ROBERT BALCH, newly-elected President of the United States, and some of his Cabinet members, FRANCES NEAL, LUCILLE RAMSEY, and MARIAN SMITH. FLOYD HOOKER, floor show producer, had a 4-bell performance, with GRIFFITH MEREDITH and CHARLES GROSS jiving out in their best comedy top number. As special guest, CHARLES

Senior Signatures

E. EVANS, JR., Heavy-Weight Champion of the world, was introduced.

Leaving Los Angeles, I started the next morning for Arizona. I stopped at the Grand Canyon National Park and found that ALBERT BAXENDALE, HOMER BROWN, and JAMES MULLER are forest rangers. WAYNE LAMBERT is head of the Park Supervisors out West.

From the Canyon, I glided over to Phoenix to visit the Mayor, BUFORD MALONE, whose right-hand-man is EDWIN POOL. I decided to spend the night there before going to New Mexico. Desiring to take in a show while I was there, I went to the new Strand Theater, which is operated by JAMES LANE.

I was agreeably surprised to find DOROTHEA HICKS at the ticket window and HERMAN GREEN the head-user-in-chief.

While enjoying breakfast in the Hotel Pewee, I was told by the manager, GLEAN RICHARDSON, that next to my table was Columbia's new blues-singing sensation, PAULINE COHEN. My food was served by a cute little miss in a natty uniform—MARGARET SANDERS.

As I left for the airport, I passed a shop with the sign "Matrimonial Bureau;" let us get you a little help-mate results guaranteed. Proprietors, JOAN HUTCHESON and FRANCES THOMPSON."

Leaving the airport behind, I flew over to Mexico. I learned that DEE AYERS and OWEN SMITH have become quite wealthy in the Mexican oil fields. I also heard that there has been some excitement down Mexico way; a recent uprising of the Natives on the Texas border was put down by WILEY PITTS and SHANNON SKELLEY, those two hard-riding Texas Rangers.

I was more than pleased to find in a beautiful Spanish Villa JENNIE LEE JACKSON and her millionaire husband. I learned from her that AUBREY CARVER has a goat ranch a couple of miles from her place.

As much as I hated to go, I had to leave this beautiful land with its colorful scenes and happy-go-lucky people, so I journeyed up to Texas.

After a short flight over the border, I stopped at a Dude Ranch run by those "sons and daughters of the Old West," ROBERT LEE and ELIZABETH COGGINS. They told me that they were having a very successful season, being patronized by such notables as JACK FARRELL, manager of the world's heavy-weight pig fighter, and BRANDSFORD CARNEY, who has stepped into George Bernard Shaw's place.

After lunch, as I was leaving, I saw a cloud of dust coming across the plains; out of it emerged a horse with a frantic-looking female trying to hang on to its neck. As the horse reached the corral, it jumped the fence, leaving its unseated rider, FRANCES KIMBROUGH, hanging on a fence post.

After this bit of hilarity, I forced myself reluctantly to leave these gay and happy surroundings. Stepping off the veranda toward my plane, I saw PAUL CREASMAN, ace photographer for the San Antonio Herald, taking a group picture of the dude ranchers in all their cowboy regalia.

I stopped for the night at Houston to visit the stock farm of HAZEL NAYLOR, who tells me she plans to enter "Wayback," her prize race horse, in the Kentucky Derby this year. She will be competing with AGNES GALLAGHER who is also entering "Flatfoot" a promising contender for the Derby crown.

In the morning I jumped over to Baton Rouge, where EILEEN BOWDEN is teaching the southern accent to a bunch of Yankee furriers.

After a short stay in old Louisiana, I decided to try Florida. During the vacation season, there are always a lot of noteworthy people there.

Driving through Tallahassee, I saw a very interesting looking shop, and on coming closer, I saw this sign—"How to be Beautiful or Handsome in easy lessons, Co-proprietors: MARY DALE HARRISON and HARMON SHARER." Miss Harrison told me that JOE SMITH is President of the First National Bank in Tallahassee. I went by and talked to Joe, and he informed me that a number of his friends had become quite prominent in the Navy; so, my interest being aroused, I flew down to Pensacola, the Navy's base in Florida.

EUGENE SUTHERLAND is a flight commander, and MURRAY JONES is a master mechanic, having given up his professional football career after a foot injury.

Eugen told me that ALBERT KREITNER is tutoring a bunch of rookie baseball players at a summer training camp in Tampa.

I flew from Pensacola across the Gulf to Miami—vacation land. After landing at the Pan American Airport, I walked down to the beach, and who should I run across but MARTHA FERGESSON and ELIZABETH HOPKINS, modeling beach attire for a New York concern; and they were being told how to look beautiful by that camera wizard, BARTON MURPHY.

In the afternoon I toured over to Key West to see a speed-boat race, and found one of the pilots of the speedy little shells to be DOUGLAS BRANHAM. As a special feature, a ten-foot water hurdle was performed by the new daredevil of the waves, LOUISE MULLICAN, in an especially-built twin-engine speed-boat. WADE JOHNSON, Pan American Airlines executive from Miami, was the official starter and honor guest.

Before starting back for New York, I visited Cuba and, in Havana, I ran across a whole bevy of beautiful girls, a chorus group from New York on a tour in Cuba. Among them were LORRAINE LINSELL, TREVANIA FRENSLEY, and HELEN HOWELL. A featured attraction with the chorus was MARIE MERIWETHER, novelty pianist.

My conquest being almost over, I began my return trip back to the plane and took off for Savannah, Georgia, where I saw HAZEL SEXTON, co-manager of Blackard and Packard Grocery Stores.

After a short spin, I dropped down at Raleigh, N. C. to see N. E. RHODES, tobacco auctioneer, and CYRIL KRAFT, owner of Kraft's Cheese Hall.

In Richmond, Virginia the next evening, I visited the Richmond Daily Star and found NIDA BRUMFIELD, editor of the society news, and MARY READY WEST, head of the advertising art department. I heard from Ready that Leo Wise is the President of Wise's Advertising concern in Philadelphia. I learned also that WILLIAM WEST and ANNA MAI HOLLADAY are Co-owners of "Wearit" nationally known Sporting goods chain.

MARGARET WILSON is making a tour for the National Museum of Natural History, giving lectures on science in schools and libraries.

Back to New York to get my illustrations for the book went I. After landing at the airport, I took a taxi to my studio, and on entering my office, I found an order from THOMAS TICHENOR for the back drops and scenery for his famous marionette troop, touring Europe.

I walked over to the window and looked down on the teeming city spread out below me, feeling very satisfied with myself. My conquest had been successful; my treasured dream had become a reality; I had been able to see and appreciate the success that had been made by all my friends and classmates at high school. These pleasing memories will remain with me always, forever reminding me of the happy days at old Hume-Fogg.

Class History 1940

Last night in a dream I went back to Hume-Fogg. I can see the big stone steps leading to the entrance, with the queer, comical little dwarfs carved above it smiling down on me just as they used to do five days a week. I opened the doors, climbed the steps to the corridor; yes, everything was just as it used to be, the bulletin board, the office with its stern looking clock and even the small printed sign prohibiting the use of obscene language. On around the corridor I strolled passing the familiar rooms with their door placks numbering each. Memories by the dozens flooded my mind, little incidents and accidents that had occurred during my school days here.

Why, it seems like only yesterday since I left Hume-Fogg. I might even give you a list of everything that happened during my senior year if you like.

I hardly know where to begin—the student council officers; Joe Smith was elected president twice and Bettie Page was secretary and treasurer during the fall term. It might be well to recall to you that infamous address delivered by one N. E. Rhodes upon the day of election in favor of Aubrey Carver who was, (and it pains me deeply to think of it), defeated, in which Mr. Rhodes removed from his pockets every conceivable object that a human mind can conjure up.

And the faculty was changed when Miss Goodwin, Miss Pope, Miss Halloran and Mrs. Hall retired and Mr. Gruber was moved to Tarbox.

Do you remember "Young and Lively"? Mark Osborne stole the show with his tantrums and Pauline Cohen covered herself with glory. Then of course there was the "Courtsip of Miles Standish" in which Mark Osborne was beat out of his girl by Gene Sutherland who played John Alden.

And the football season! It was a scorcher! Some of you old timers remember vaguely one warm, dusty night in 1939 A. D. when the Blue Devils beat East 7-0. Every one present went wild, including some supporters of the other side and in the fracas that followed the colors of Hume-Fogg triumphed again. There were cries of "We had to wait seven years but it was worth it." And of course Leo's remark that, "when one of those babies started around Barton's end it was just money in the bank." And do you remember the dances: Girl Reserves, Athletic Association and the good old matinee hops. But alas, comes that woeful day, midterms. And then the new term with a dumb crop of freshmen to elucidate and educate. And then basketball; Bill West, captain and Barton Murphey, towel hauler. Certain members of the senior class got tired of the newspapers talking about, "the little pillbox gymnasium of the downtown school."

Then came preparation for graduation. Election of class officers and Leo did it again! Rehearsals for "Berkeley Square" with the major parts filled by seniors. Bettie Page chosen for the D. A. R. medal. Barton and Bettie chosen as valedictorian and salutatorian respectively. Choosing of class superlatives with pretty boy Sharer and Robert Lee honored by their classmates.

It was at this time that I suddenly discovered that I didn't want to leave Hume-Fogg. That I didn't want to graduate. I began to see how much I had missed that I might have taken advantage of, and how much I had progressed. Perhaps you felt the same way. I realize now, many years later, that the happy carefree days of high school are the best in life and I wish, as so many others before me have wished, in vain to relive them. Nevertheless I shall always carry in my heart the memory of Hume-Fogg, the school that come what may, will always be my alma mater. Then my dream faded and I awoke to find my pillow wet with tears.

In reviewing the past year with reference to the Hume-Fogg Student Council, this might fittingly be said of it: "The Council tried."

The sole aim of the organization was to promote a better relationship between student and teacher. The first step toward this goal was devised by a committee later to become the Advisory Council. The committee, headed by Joe Smith, decided that the better-relationship campaign should start with a meeting of the boys and girls separately. This was accomplished and with a certain amount of success. In this committee was born the idea of the Advisory Council and Monitor Board. These organs of the Council were put into effect and, while a great deal of success could not be attributed to them, still, if given time, they would have grown into useful organizations of the school.

Football

Hume-Fogg's most successful football season since 1932, when the "Blue Devils" were City Champs, got under way after it was definitely decided that Coach J. F. McKibbon would return as head coach and would have as his assistant, Julian Crocker, formerly of Isaac Litton.

Hume-Fogg 0

The "Devils'" first test came on September 22, when they journeyed to Hopkinsville, Kentucky to meet the strong "Tiger" eleven of that city. The heavier Hopetown boys rushed two quick touchdowns over the bewildered visitors before two minutes of play were completed. The Blue Devils outplayed their opponents during the remainder of the game, but were unable to score, and came home 12-0 losers.

Hume-Fogg 13

On September 29, Hume-Fogg played its first Interscholastic League game, and defeated the Cumberland "Indians" 13-7 in a bitterly fought contest on a muddy field. Murray Jones scored the home team's initial touchdown of 1939, and Miles Murphy racked up the first extra point of the year.

Hume-Fogg 7

On October 13, the Blue and White boys nosed out an inspired Bellevue eleven, 7-6. The Hume-Fogg boys were outplayed throughout the first half, but came back to win with a touchdown by Sherrill and the conversion by B. Murphy.

Hume-Fogg 20

On October 27 Hume-Fogg rolled over a fighting Cohn High eleven in a driving rain-storm by the score of 20-7. The "Blue Boys" came from behind to win on touchdowns by M. Jones, Ferrell, Sherrill, and conversions by Smith.

Hume-Fogg 13

West End 14

The Blue Devils met their initial Interscholastic League defeat at the hands of the highly touted West End "Mustangs" on November 3, when they were beaten by their hosts, 14-13. H.-F. scored on the second play from scrimmage when Murray Jones galloped seventy-two yards for a touchdown.

Hume-Fogg 7

East 0

On October 20, in their homecoming game, the "Blue Devils" routed the East High "Grey Eagles" to the tune of a 7-0 score. Highlights of the game were Hume-Fogg's two brilliant goal-line stands and then that never-to-be-forgotten last minute eighty-yard drive which culminated in a touchdown by M. Jones and a conversion by B. Murphy.

On November 10, Hume-Fogg and Central, each battling for a playoff berth, struggled up and down a muddy field in a battle in which neither team was able to penetrate inside the other's ten-yard line.

Basketball

With the pigskin safely tucked away at the conclusion of a very successful season, interest shifted to the indoor pastime with the return of lettermen Horace Leaver, William West, M. P. Murphy, Roy Sherrill, James Kirklin, and Ed Hunter, supporters and onlookers anticipated an equally successful campaign.

The Blue Devils opened against the alumni, composed of such former stars as "Bowser" Chest, Lallie Richter, Jack Diamond, Marshall Toombs, and others. With Toombs and Chest ripping the nettings regularly, the "old grads" got off to an early start and were never headed. Leaver and Kirklin led the "point parade" for the present team. The score was 69-41.

Hume-Fogg marked up one in the win column when they defeated Wallace 51-35. Horace Leaver with 22 points was outstanding. David Lipscomb was next and they, too, fell before the strong Devil quintet. Heavy fourth quarter scoring enabled the "Home-squad" to win 57-27. Hume-Fogg registered its third straight win by defeating Cohn 33-25. Leaver, West, and Murphy stood out for H.-F.

In a nip and tuck battle at Mt. Juliet, the uptown school boys fell before the Mt. Juliet five 38-35. The high scoring honor duel between Leaver of H.-F. and Smartt of Mt. Juliet was the feature of the contest. Miles Murphy's play was also outstanding.

The Blue and White lads then fell before the crack West combine to the tune of 39-29. Ray of West and Kirklin of Hume-Fogg registered most in the point column.

At this point lettermen Roger Thornton and Cyril Kraft, along with Lewis Aaron, joined the squad. The re-enforced Blue Devil five then engaged the "Bronco Busters" of T. I. S. and lost in a thriller, after having led for three quarters, by the score of 29-31. Captain William West took honors in this battle.

Hume-Fogg supporters, along with a handful of East High students, witnessed the defeat of the former's arch rival, East High, in a "torrid" battle that ended in a tie, following Leaver's "movie-finish" two pointer. H.-F. went on to win in an overtime period 37-35, Murphy sinking the decider.

Lipscomb's Mustangs again fell before the Blue Devils, this time 29-22. Sherrill and Hunter shined for the local boys, while Scobey caged 10 for Lipscomb.

In another thriller, Hume-Fogg defeated East. After trailing 11-13 at the half, the Devil quintet came back strong to win, 29-22. The entire squad played well for H.-F. With West and Murphy in true form, the Bulldogs of Wallace were again overwhelmed, this time, 32-20. Doubleday and Heriges shared scoring honors for Wallace.

Avenging an early defeat, Hume-Fogg smacked down Mt. Juliet by a 51-18 margin. Irby and Kraft scored most for the city boys, while Smartt made 8 for Mt. Juliet. The Blue Devil five again fell before the strong West team, being nosed out 32-30. Cohn succumbed to Hume-Fogg for the second time, losing 31-24. Leaver and Kraft shared honors for the winners, and Neely was high-point man for the losers.

After a mighty second-half bid for the verdict, H.-F. lost to Cumberland 23-28. Putman and H. Wilson dumped in 9 points each for Cumberland, and Leaver made 10 for the "Devils."

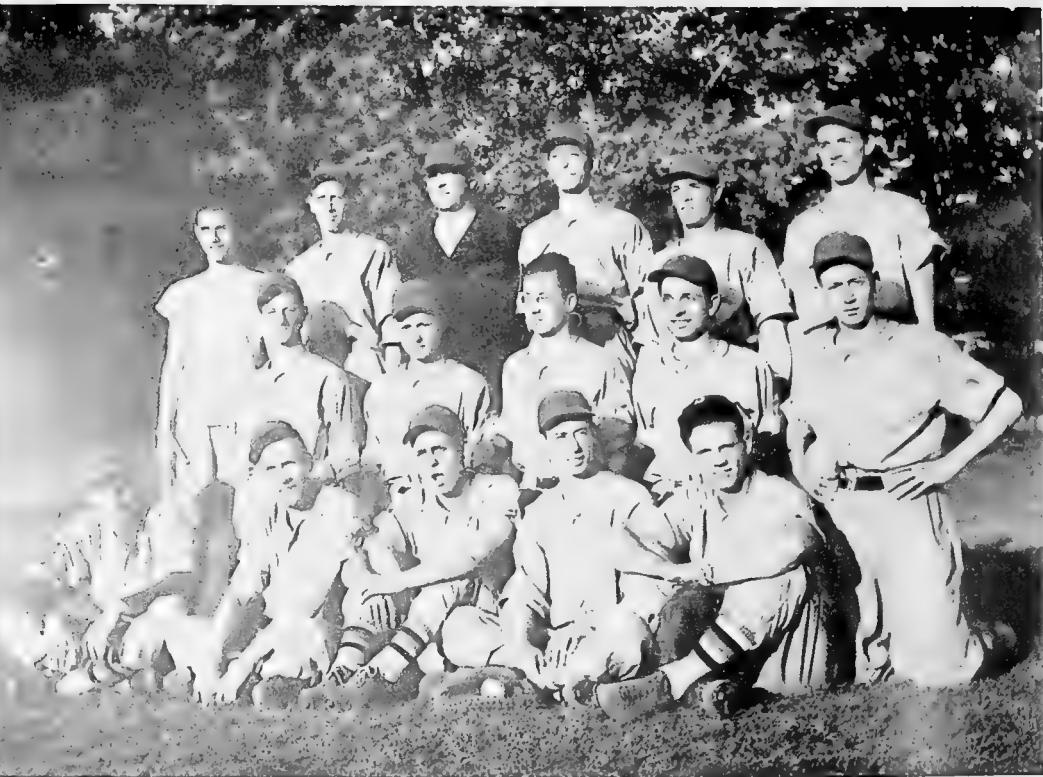

To complete the regular schedule, the local team lost to T. I. S. 30-36. J. T. Cox and McSpadden set the pace for the "Bronco" boys.

In the Seventh District Tournament, held annually at East High, Hume-Fogg bowed to Mt. Juliet, 20-31. The Mt. Juliet tossers ran up a large first-half lead which they never relinquished.

Baseball

With the arrival of March, interest at Hume-Fogg immediately shifted to baseball where a better than mediocre team was expected to represent the school on the diamond. The Blue Devils were composed of eight of last year's lettermen, Bill West, Roger Thornton, Roy Sherrill, Cyril Kraft, Horace Leaver, Albert Kreitner, Bill Bomar, Oscar Ferrell, and newcomers J. T. Potts, David Ellis, Jack Bomar, Alan Willis, and Jimmie Binns.

Hume-Fogg played its first game of the season on April 5, against Goodlettsville High, coached by "Bubber" Murphy. After getting off to a shaky start, in which the home squad fell behind two runs in the first inning, the Blue Devils came back to trounce the visitors 5-2 on Oscar Ferrell's six hit pitching, and Bill Bomar's home run.

In their second game played at Franklin, Tennessee against Battle Ground Academy, B. G. A. fell before the murderous blue and white brigade to the tune of 18-2, as Roger Thornton led the Blue Devil hitters.

Hume-Fogg next defeated Duncan 9-5, as Horace Leaver and Roger Thornton each gathered two hits, which combined with Bill West's fine pitching in the pinches enabled the Blue Devils to rack up the victory.

ON APRIL 25, OSCAR "OTT" FERRELL SET THE ISAAC LITTON LADS OF COACH JAYBIRD HAMBLEN DOWN WITH NO HITS AND NO RUNS, NOT ALLOWING A LITTONITE TO REACH FIRST, WHILE THE HOME TEAM WAS GETTING 7 HITS AND AS MANY RUNS TO DEFEAT THE LITTON BOYS, 7-0. THIS WAS THE FIRST NO-MAN-TO-FIRST GAME EVER PITCHED IN THE CITY, AND IT IS BELIEVED TO BE THE FIRST ONE PITCHED IN THE STATE.

Columbia High was the next victim of the Blue Devils, being beaten 9-7 in a thrilling game at Centennial Park which saw the lead see-sawing back and forth, and which saw Roy Sherrill star for the Devils.

Hume-Fogg then took over first place in the Interscholastic League on April 29 by beating the Central High Tornadoes,

3-2 at Centennial Park, in a game which featured the brilliant pitching of Jess Wiley of Central and Oscar Ferrell of Hume-Fogg. Roger Thornton personally accounted for the victory with a tremendous home run over the center fielder's head in the last of the sixth inning.

Hume-Fogg dropped the first game of the season on April 30, at Centennial Park to Gene Vaughn of Cohn High by a 5-2 score. Only Roy Sherrill was able to hit the offerings of Vaughn.

Harry Small then set the Blue Devils down 4-0 for the Bronco Busters of T. I. S. as only Bill Bomar was able to get as many as two hits for Hume-Fogg. Although Roy Sherrill and Oscar Ferrell raked Small for triples Our Lads couldn't score.

Central handed Hume-Fogg its third straight setback of the season by a 8-4 score as "Pete" Potts obtained two hits for Hume-Fogg while Pittard was duplicating this feat for Central.

The home nine finally returned to the win column by defeating its arch rival, Joe Sill's T. I. S. team for the first time in several seasons at Centennial Park on May 17 by the score of 2-1. David Ellis, fledgling Blue Devil hurler, turned in a masterpiece of a game by holding the Busters to four hits.

Featured by the hitting of Bill West, Albert Kreitner, and Cyril Kraft, who obtained two hits each, the Blue Devils ended their season with a 13-1 triumph over B. G. A. at Centennial Park on May 21 as Bill West set Turney Ford's cohorts down with two hits.

On October 27 and 28, the Dramatic Club opened its new season with the production of the youthful comedy, "Young and Lively." Ross Ballew and Ann Morrison took the leads and, backed by an excellent cast, they made this play quite a hit with the student public.

After the play, the Club began its "Talent Show." A weekly feature, free to the student body, this novel scenic brought much delightful entertainment to the students as well as disclosing a host of hidden talent.

For Thanksgiving, the dramatic group presented a one-act play entitled "The Courtship of Miles Standish," starring Mark Osborne and Ann Morrison.

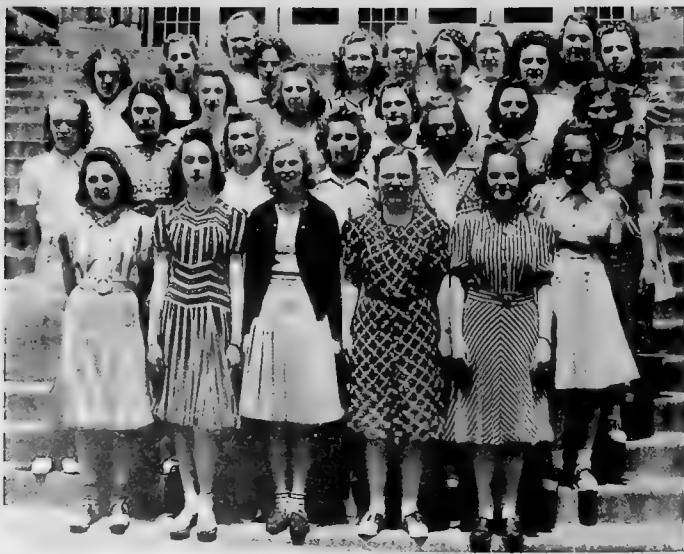

As a final offering for the term, the Dramatic Club presented "A Star is Born," a Christmas pageant written by Mrs. I. B. Alder, the director.

The spring term was opened with the production of two one-act mystery thrillers. The first, "The Tiger's Claw," featuring the acting of Ed Hussey and Bettie Page, was presented during the third period on February 19. The success of this play was such that the Club decided to give a similar play almost immediately. The second offering was "The Full Moon," in which Ed Hussey very capably portrayed the part of a mad heretic.

By the time "The Full Moon" was finished, plans were in full swing for the major production of the year, "Berkeley Square." Ed Hussey, playing the leading role of Peter Standish, again won top acting honors. In this story of a man who turned back the pages of time and assumed the role of his ancestor, Ed Hussey did a superb piece of acting that has seldom been surpassed on an amateur stage. The leading feminine roles were portrayed excellently by Peggy Alder and Bettie Page. This play will be considered one of the greatest in Hume-Fogg's dramatic history.

"Oh Clarissa," a roaring comedy of three acts was given as the Senior play. The cast included Ross Ballew, Ann Morrison, La Vina Klooz, Gay Weber, Doris Grubbs, Bettie Page, Mark Osborne, This hit closed a successful season for the Dramatic Club.
